Ann contracted polio at the age of four. She was not expected to live let alone go on to marry, bear five children and live her life giving to others in ministry and music. Ann first learned to sing lying flat on her back, singing along with records in her hospital bed. Her remarkable story of faith and courage unfolds in her book, "In My Dreams I Can Dance."

Ann tells about her struggles with pain, fear and loneliness. Despite these struggles she came to know the love and comforting presence of the Holy Spirit. As a teenager God called her

Standing in the Gap

TGIF Today God Is First
Volume 1 by Os Hillman

"I looked for a man among them who would build up the wall and stand before Me in the gap on behalf of the land so I would not have to destroy it, but I found none." - Ezekiel 22:30.

The people of Israel fell into sin when they worshiped the golden calf. It would not be the last time God's people would fall into idol worship. They had forgotten the great things God had done for them. This angered God so much that He was going to destroy the whole nation. Only one thing changed God's mind in the matter -- Moses. Psalm 106:23 says, "...had not Moses, His chosen one, stood in the breach before Him to keep His wrath from destroying them." Moses was a man willing to stand in the gap, sacrificially, for those who were not deserving of such sacrifice. This sacrificial love by Moses is called for among His people today.

into full-time ministry. She received a voice scholarship to Shorter College in Rome, GA. It was here that she met and married Carter Foster. Together Ann and Carter planted churches in Kentucky, Indiana, Colorado, and Texas. As of this writing they have been in ministry for 47 years and now serve on the pastoral staff of Covenant Church in Colleyville, Texas. They have five grown children, fifteen grandchildren and one great grandchild. In January 2006 she received her Doctoral Degree in Philosophy.

His most recent job experience includes event set up/clean up. If you know of any potential positions or would like to learn more, please contact Liz Carla at liz@findyourdallashome.com.

The prophet Ezekiel described another situation in which God's people fell into sin. God was ready to destroy the nation when He spoke to Ezekiel, asking him if there is a man willing to stand in the gap so that God would not have to destroy His people.

Judah was a man who stood in the gap on behalf of his younger brother Benjamin. Joseph held his brother Simeon hostage as insurance that the other brothers would bring Benjamin to Egypt. Judah had a long history of a me-focused life, but in this instance he came forward to stand in the gap for his younger brother. He responded to the anguish of his father, Jacob, by personally guaranteeing the safe return of both Simeon and Benjamin. Judah's sacrifice was rewarded (see Gen. 42-43).

Just as Christ did, we are to be those who will stand in the gap on behalf of others who are not aware of their own vulnerable condition. It is a proactive sacrificial position. Who is God calling you to stand in the gap for? Perhaps it is a mate; perhaps it is a coworker who has not come to know the Savior; perhaps it is a wayward child. Are you willing to become the sacrificial offering to God to change His plans of judgment because of your willingness to stand in their place? This is a hard teaching. This is what Jesus did for each of us. When we stand in the place of another, God moves because of our willingness to stand on their behalf. If we don't, His plans will go forward because He is a righteous and holy God who will honor His own word, even if it means
